Leadership Series: 21st Century Challenges of Health Equity | Aug 20

Date: August 20, 2020  Time: 12:00 PM

Location:
Webinar - noon to 1 pm

Registration:

“21st Century Challenges of Health Equity” is the fifth of six complimentary webinars in IHA’s virtual speaker series from June through September. You may register for individual session(s) or the entire series. Registration includes program material, one phone/Internet connection and access to the session recording(s).

From broken community partnerships to diminished funding, how do we overcome the 21st century challenges of health equity? This webinar will motivate clinicians, researchers and healthcare leaders to explore the role, recognition and remediation of inequity in medicine. Healthcare providers will gain strategies to clinically confront the deadly “isms” that prevent quality care and public wellness. Kevin Ahmaad Jenkins, PhD, will address the urgent issues of systemic racism and unconscious/implicit bias, as well as the impact they have on delivering quality care to all.

See our flyer on the full speaker series.

Kevin Ahmaad Jenkins, PhD, Vice-Provost Postdoctoral Fellow, School of Social Policy & Practice, University of Pennsylvania

Kevin Ahmaad Jenkins, PhD, is a dynamic speaker and scholar who serves as a Vice-Provost Postdoctoral Fellow and lecturer at the University of Pennsylvania. An award-winning journalist, he examines the influence of race, racism and psychosocial stress within medicine. Jenkins currently leads research studies that analyze how stress lethally interacts with vascular diseases (e.g., heart disease, chronic kidney disease and diabetes) and Alzheimer’s disease in high-risk subgroups within the Black community. In 2017, the National Minority Qualify Forum named Jenkins one of the “40 Under 40 Leaders in Minority Health.”
