Abbott Virus Test Used at White House Faces Accuracy Concern

The COVID-19 test used at the White House to get rapid answers to whether someone is infected may miss as many as half of positive cases, according to a report from New York University. Bloomberg News