US allows use of 1st drug shown to help virus recovery

US regulators allowed emergency use of the first drug that appears to help some virus patients recover faster, a milestone in the global search for therapies against COVID-19. Associated Press