One German church service resulted in more than 100 coronavirus infections

The outbreak highlights the risks that accompany easing lockdowns even in countries that have managed to control the spread of the virus relatively well. Vox