Letters: Telehealth benefits patients and doctors, even during nonpandemic times

The story of telehealth during the pandemic is that of the ugly duckling turned swan. And those of us who were the crazed preachers touting its worth for years are now saying, “I told you so.” Chicago Trib Ltr to Edtr