US infection rate rising outside New York as states open up

Set aside New York area’s progress against COVID-19 and the numbers show the rest of the US is moving in the wrong direction, with the known infection rate rising as states move to lift lockdowns. Associated Press