Older children can spread the coronavirus just as much as adults, study finds

In the heated debate over reopening schools, one burning question has been whether and how efficiently children can spread the coronavirus to others. New York Times

©2020 Illinois Health and Hospital Association