After Recovery From the Coronavirus, Most People Carry Antibodies

A new study offers a glimmer of hope in the grim fight against COVID-19: Nearly everyone who has had the disease regardless of age, sex or severity of illness makes antibodies to the virus. New York Times