THE CHOICE AHEAD: OWN YOUR FUTURE OR BE DISRUPTED BY IT

Scott D. Anthony, Clinical Professor of Strategy, Tuck School of Business, Dartmouth College; and Craig E. Deao, Managing Director, Huron

Illinois hospitals and health systems are taking on more than they have in years, yet many face challenging futures. The reason goes deeper than operations. The underlying economics and expectations of healthcare—many of which are beyond hospitals' control—are fundamentally shifting. This boot camp-type session will explore how game-changing disruption actually happens and how leading organizations across industries are responding. We'll take a deep dive into national healthcare market data and Illinois-specific implications to explain what is changing in healthcare, focusing on how economic and market shifts are affecting access to care, care delivery design, workforce capacity, and quality. Importantly, the discussion will pinpoint what hospital and health system leaders can control inside their organizations, steps to take together to influence the external environment, and how to act with clarity and intention to build a stronger future.

The Real-Time Technology Revolution: Creating Transparency, Efficiency and Patient-Centered Experiences

Rae Woods, Vice President, National Spokesperson, Host, Radio Advisory, Advisory Board; and Brandon Childs

Hospital and health system leaders are being asked to move faster—improving access and patient experience while protecting financial viability in an environment defined by uncertainty and rising administrative burden. One of the biggest barriers is not clinical capability, but lagging information: When coverage, benefits, and claim decisions arrive days or weeks later, organizations confront rework, delays, and patient confusion. This session will explore how technology can change that equation by turning key revenue cycle and patient access challenges into immediate and reliable decisions.

Rae Woods, Vice President, National Spokesperson, Host, Radio Advisory, Advisory Board

As the national spokesperson, Rae Woods helps C-suite executives, leadership teams, and boards take action on their top priorities and make better decisions with Advisory Board's insights and analysis. Known for her energetic style, Woods is a passionate teacher and frequent speaker at healthcare industry events. She has led business-style research studies at Advisory Board since 2014, and brings deep healthcare knowledge, strategic insight, and operational expertise to her hands-on work with executives. Sharing insights from the across the industry, Woods is the host and executive producer of Advisory Board's award-winning podcast, Radio Advisory, and an adjunct faculty member for Advisory Board Fellowship.

Physician Benchmarking: Understanding Market Trends Related to Physician-Based Revenue Cycle Performance

Justin Stevens, MHA, PMP, Executive Director, Revenue Cycle Advisory, Kodiak Solutions, Indianapolis, IN

Matt Szafflarski, Vice President, Revenue Cycle Intelligence, Kodiak Solutions, Chicago

This session will provide a practical, data-driven perspective on how physician revenue cycle performance is evolving across the market—grounded in real-world benchmarking insights. You'll gain a clearer understanding of where organizations are exceeding expectations and where performance gaps persist, along with the key operational drivers influencing both outcomes.

The session will also explore the broader forces shaping today's physician revenue cycle environment, including shifting reimbursement dynamics and increasing administrative complexity.

Justin Stevens, MHA, PMP, Executive Director, Revenue Cycle Advisory, Kodiak Solutions, Indianapolis, IN

With a focus on revenue cycle, Justin Stevens has more than 25 years of diverse experience in the healthcare industry, from health industry provider side to third party IT and consulting organizations. In his consulting roles, Stevens has provided input on a multitude of projects both internal and external related to the hospital revenue cycle. Prior to management consulting, Stevens worked as a Project Manager for McKesson Provider Technologies and for a multi-facility health system in the areas of patient access, revenue cycle and managed care.

Matt Szaflarski, Vice President, Revenue Cycle Intelligence, Kodiak Solutions, Chicago

Matt Szaflarski leads Kodiak's Revenue Cycle Intelligence team, which focuses on building analytic solutions to help customers target, quantify, and solve their most challenging issues. He oversees Kodiak's benchmarking service offerings, which measure revenue cycle performance across more than $2 trillion in annual gross revenue. Szaflarski has more than 15 years of revenue cycle experience focused on supporting customer performance improvement efforts.

The Future of Healthcare Workforce Solutions: Flexibility, Float Pools and Technology

Karin Selfors, Chief Client Officer, Medical Solutions

As healthcare organizations evolve to meet growing patient needs and ongoing workforce pressures, new staffing models are redefining how care teams are supported and deployed. This session will explore how flexible workforce solutions, innovative float pool strategies, and emerging technologies are transforming staffing efficiency and enabling hospitals to build stronger, more adaptable clinical teams.

Karin Selfors, Chief Client Officer, Medical Solutions

Karin Selfors leads Medical Solutions' Client Experience and Client success teams and is responsible for driving innovation and strengthening client partnerships. Before joining Medical Solutions, Selfors made significant contributions in roles across investment banking, The Adecco Group and Pontoon Solutions. Throughout her career, she has developed a reputation for creating customized solutions that meet the evolving needs of clients across diverse industries. Selfors is known for driving business growth and transformation through her leadership.

NAVIGATING FEDERAL HEALTH POLICY: A FIRESIDE CHAT WITH AHA'S RICK POLLACK

Significant changes to federal policy are expected to have an outsize impact on hospitals, health systems and patients, from access to care to financial stability. American Hospital Association (AHA) President and CEO Rick Pollack will discuss key federal issues most likely to affect Illinois hospitals and health systems, including patient access, coverage, workforce, and hospital operations. He'll touch on what's happening on Capitol Hill, the policy environment in Washington and potential implications of the upcoming midterm elections. He'll also share what today's hospital and health system leaders need to know as they navigate an increasingly complex policy landscape.

Public Perception and the Importance of Telling Your Hospital's Story

Michael Hildebrand, Senior Vice President, Public, Community & Rural Health Systems Practice Deputy, Jarrard Inc., Nashville, TN

There's power in storytelling. When navigating disruptive innovation, successful healthcare leaders are those who can clearly communicate the impact of external changes on their organization. Sharing your hospital's story to your patients, workforce, community leaders, elected officials, and other stakeholders is critical in today's increasingly complex and polarized environment. And it all starts with a deep understanding of how your organization is perceived by patients, consumers, and other stakeholders in the communities you serve. This session will explore how hospitals can best convey their important role in communities and connect that story to stronger patient trust, access to care, and community health.

11:00 am – 12:00 pm

CLOSING SESSION

The Life-Changing Power of Your Rope Team

Command Sergeant Major (Ret.) Gretchen Evans

It was the achievement of her dreams: overseeing 30,000 troops as a Command Sergeant Major in Afghanistan. Yet the trajectory of Gretchen Evans' life changed in an instant when she was hit by a rocket attack. Suffering catastrophic injuries, Evans also lost her hearing. During the Summit's closing session, she'll describe the scope of her career and life, from finding purpose in the military to her devastating injury and ultimately to her decision to reclaim her life—with the support of her rope team. As one of the most highly decorated women to serve in the U.S. Army, Evans will offer her wisdom on grit, resilience, hope and overcoming any barrier you face. She'll inspire you to find your own "rope team" and live your best life.

He is skilled at creating connections among diverse audiences including elected and government officials, executives, community and business leaders, and the media.

Thomas Jackiewicz, President, UChicago Medicine, Chicago, Illinois

Tom Jackiewicz is president of the University of Chicago Health System (UCHS), the $5.6 billion, seven-hospital clinical enterprise that integrates the patient care mission of UCHS with the education and research missions of the University of Chicago. Jackiewicz is highly regarded for his ability to reimagine how the traditional academic health system framework can better support the clinical, educational, and research needs of the future and accelerate delivery of research-driven practices to inpatient, outpatient, and home settings.

Jackiewicz is a strategic visionary who has ushered in eras of substantial growth and improvement at academic health systems where the best and brightest work together for the common good. At UCHS, he is championing the construction of a new $815 million cancer center, which will be Chicago's first freestanding cancer center. Other key initiatives under his leadership include adding four AdventHealth hospitals and a physician network, opening a Northwest Indiana campus and leading a major collaborative of providers focusing on health challenges on Chicago's South Side.

Prior to joining UChicago Medicine, Jackiewicz served as CEO of Keck Medicine of USC in Los Angeles, where he grew the medical enterprise from a $450 million to $2.2 billion regional academic health system and achieved a top 20 ranking on the U.S. News & World Report Best Hospitals Honor Roll. Jackiewicz is a fellow of Leadership Greater Chicago and a frequent speaker at national gatherings including the American College of Healthcare Executives, Becker's, and the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine. He serves as a member of the IHA Board of Trustees, Strategic Planning Committee of America's Essential Hospitals, Inflix Advisory Board and Wall Street Journal CEO Council.

Rick Pollack, President and CEO, American Hospital Association, Washington, D.C.

Rick Pollack is president and CEO of the American Hospital Association (AHA), the nation's largest hospital and health system membership organization with nearly 5,000 member hospitals, health systems, networks, and other care providers. Serving as the AHA's top leader since 2015, Pollack is widely recognized for his strong, effective advocacy and leadership on behalf of our nation's hospitals, the patients and communities they serve, and the healthcare professionals those organizations support. Pollack has been an influential leader in securing the field's financial stability, as well as redefining the "H" to care for patients in more efficient and convenient ways. Under his leadership, AHA launched a comprehensive effort to address historic workforce challenges.

Pollack has shaped and grown what is widely regarded as one of the nation's most respected and effective advocacy organizations. AHA's has a sophisticated political and grassroots network in every congressional district in the country and one of the largest healthcare political action committees, AHAPAC. Pollack has also guided AHA's efforts to improve quality and patient safety. As an early leader committed to addressing the growing and evolving cybercrime threats, Pollack launched a partnership with the FBI and other government agencies to provide hospitals greater support and resources in this area.

Among his many roles, Pollack serves the AHA Board of Trustees; Board of Directors of the Coalition to Strengthen America's Healthcare; steering committees of the National Academy of Medicine Action Collaborative on Clinician Well-Being and Resilience and the Action Collaborative on Decarbonizing the U.S. Health Sector; U.S. Chamber of Commerce Committee of 100.

Pollack began his career in Washington, D.C., as a legislative assistant to U.S. Rep. David Obey of Wisconsin, then as a legislative representative for the American Nurses Association. He joined AHA in 1982, a tenure which has included more than 20 years as its executive vice president for advocacy and public policy before becoming president and CEO.

José R. Sánchez, President and CEO, Humboldt Park Health, Chicago, Illinois

José R. Sánchez, president and CEO of Humboldt Park Health (HPH), is a senior healthcare executive with over 40 years of experience in operational, strategic, and fiscal management of multifaceted health systems. He is currently Chicago's only Latino hospital CEO. Under his leadership, HPH has maintained financial stability and growth throughout his tenure, and consistently exceeded benchmarks in quality, safety, and patient satisfaction. In April 2024, HPH became the first Midwestern hospital and 13th in the nation to successfully achieve Health Equity Certification from The Joint Commission.

In January 2025, HPH opened a 45,500 square-foot Wellness Center one block from the hospital. This represents the first phase of Sánchez's vision for a community health campus that focuses on wellness, accessibility and empowerment. The Wellness Center houses the hospital's rehabilitation services, two swimming pools, state-of-the-art fitness equipment, an indoor track, and specialty classes, such as cycling and yoga. Its third-floor conference rooms provide space for local community groups. In January 2021, Sánchez led the hospital in a major rebranding initiative, during which the hospital was renamed from Norwegian American Hospital to Humboldt Park Health, honoring the diversity of the community it serves.

Sánchez is chair of the Association of Safety-Net Community Hospitals and board chair of Wellness West, a Healthcare Transformation Collaborative of the Illinois Department of Healthcare and Family Services. He is a member of the American Hospital Association's Division of Health Outcomes and Care Transformation and the Advisory Board of America's Essential Hospitals.

Kevin Zachary, Chief Executive Officer, JCH HealthCare, Jerseyville, Illinois

Kevin Zachary joined JCH HealthCare as CEO in June 2025 and has more than two decades of leadership experience in healthcare operations, patient-centered care, and strategic growth. Originally from Texas and most recently residing in Colorado, Zachary has held key executive roles at LifePoint Health, Health Management Associates, Tenet Healthcare, and Halifax Regional Medical Center. His experience includes multisite leadership, physician recruitment, operational optimization, and fostering a culture of safety and excellence in care.
